Punctuation

Every Saturday afternoon, Karen and her mother, Joy, make a special Saturday lunch for their family. Karen starts by washing the vegetables for the salad while Joy preps the pot roast; or. They chat while they cook. Karen talks about what happened at school that week as she chops the lettuce, tomatoes, cucumbers, and mushrooms. Joy talks about her chess tournament as she seasons the meat. Karen tosses the salad together and puts it in the refrigerator; or. Joy puts the roast in the oven and sets the timer for two hours. Joy and Karen clean potatoes, and they continue their conversation. They pop the potatoes in the oven and wait for everything to finish cooking. After everything is done, Joy yells, "Dinner!"
